

Rachel Wisdom concentrates her practice in labor and employment law, complex litigation, and class action lawsuits. She has extensive experience defending public agencies and businesses against discrimination, wage penalty, employment civil rights, retaliatory discharge, and other claims in both federal and state courts.

Ms. Wisdom regularly advises clients on employment practices and policies, agreements, and related matters. One of her most notable cases includes defending the Housing Authority of New Orleans (HANO) against a class action lawsuit that sought to stop HANO from tearing down storm damaged public housing projects after Hurricane Katrina to build mixed-income housing. Rachel also provides pro bono legal services for the homeless through Homeless Experience Legal Protection (H.E.L.P.).
