To All LSBA Bankruptcy Section Members Under 50 Years Old:

Thank you for being a member of the Louisiana State Bar Association's Bankruptcy Section.

Have you considered becoming a Board Certified Bankruptcy Law Specialist? If not, the Louisiana Board of Legal Specialization ("LBSL") and the LBSL Bankruptcy Law Advisory Commission strongly encourage you to consider it. One reason you may want to consider becoming board certified is that bankruptcy judges may consider board certification when awarding "reasonable compensation," pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §330(a)(3).

There are several articles on the American Board of Certification's website that set forth the pros of becoming board certified. A good place to start is: "Why Become a Board Certified Attorney?" <https://www.abworld.org/why-become-board-certified-attorney>

Next, follow-up with: "Why Every Young Lawyer Should Strive for Board Certification," <https://abi-abc.s3.amazonaws.com/journal-articles/strive-for-certification.pdf>

And finish with an article from the ABI Journal: "ABC Update: The Value of Board Certification: Views from the Bench," https://abi-abc.s3.amazonaws.com/journal-articles/ABC_04-18.pdf

In Louisiana, eligible bankruptcy attorneys first become certified in either Business Bankruptcy Law or Consumer Bankruptcy Law by the American Board of Certification ("ABC") and then apply for certification by the Louisiana Board of Legal Specialization.

How do you get started?

Here are the step-by-step details to become ABC certified:

<https://www.abworld.org/how-become-certified>

If you are a member of the American Bankruptcy Institute, you can take the exam at one of its conferences, or you can request that an ABC representative come to your office to proctor your exam.

1. The first step is to review the Rules & Regulations (<https://www.abworld.org/rules>) of the ABC to ascertain your eligibility.
2. If you believe you are eligible, fill out the Short Form Application (<https://www.abworld.org/how-become-certified>) and send it to the ABC along with payment of the appropriate non-refundable application fee.

3. Once the short form and application fees are submitted, an attorney is eligible to sit for the certification examination. This is true even if the Long Form Application has not been completed. Read more on Exam Information here (<https://www.abcworld.org/exam>).

Each applicant seeking to obtain certification from the Louisiana Board of Legal Specialization in the areas of Business Bankruptcy Law and/or Consumer Bankruptcy Law must successfully obtain certification as a specialist in the area of Business Bankruptcy Law and/or Consumer Bankruptcy Law from the ABC. Here is a link to Louisiana Board of Legal Specialization website: <https://www.lsba.org/Specialization/>.

Once you are ABC certified, contact Specialization Director Mary Ann Wegmann at (504) 619-0128 or via email at maryann.wegmann@lsba.com for an application for certification with the Louisiana Board of Certification (not accessible on the website). You may access the Bankruptcy Law Standards on the Louisiana Board of Legal Specialization website through this link: <https://www.lsba.org/Specialization/BusinessBankruptcy.aspx?Area=Standards>.

So what are you waiting for? Get started with your certification process today!

If you have any questions at all, please don't hesitate to contact Mary Ann Wegmann or Kristin Delfs at the American Board of Certification (319-365-2222 or director@abcworld.org).
